“Products and Applications” division as the new hotbed for innovations

Menzerna is the industrial polishing market and technology leader. The new “Products and Applications” division of Menzerna further solidifies this position. This is an investment in the polishing solutions and application technologies for future markets, in additional qualified personnel and in the equipment of the Menzerna technical centre. Glowing prospects for the competitive future of Menzerna customers. With the established infrastructure, Menzerna is sure to continue delivering innovative products and the latest technologies going forward.

Market Development, Application Technology and Industrial Consulting are being combined, while Sales and Product Development will collaborate more closely. More clout, market-oriented product development and shorter project implementation times bring innovations to Menzerna customers sooner.

Are you looking for an innovative solution for your special polishing application? Rudi Messmer, Product and Application Manager, is happy to talk to you.
